

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 The optical pickup according to the present invention includes an integrated unit having a laser beam source, a detecting portion, a diffraction element integrated and an objective lens. In addition, a transparent optical compensation film is provided in the optical path from laser beam source to objective lens. Integrated unit according to the present invention includes the optical compensation film.